

What condition my condition was in [24]

One thing I don't understand about ~~scumbag~~ people who stockpile all the hand sanitizer is surely you want everyone, not just you, to be keeping clean right now? Who wants to be the one survivor sitting on a throne of Dettol? Is that a victory? I'm all alone now but at least no one's hands are cleaner than mine!!!

In a second, I have to do a few online interviews for call-centre jobs. I've only done one of those before and I cocked it up big time. It was last year, and what happens is that it asks you a question and you have three chances to answer the question in a video. The third video - regardless of how shite it is - automatically gets sent, and I didn't realise I was up to the third already. I can't remember the exact profanity I used, but needless to say I didn't get a callback for that one. Fingers crossed these go better & I can find a bit of my bedroom wall that would make an appropriate backdrop - which bit of wall says I'm an employable mofo?

Like everyone I'm spending as much time as I ~~can~~ can at the moment at home. But despite the fact that I do a lot of freelance work I'm actually not used to working at home. Normally I get very distracted working from home (cause all my stuff is there really) so I haven't attempted it since uni. I have pleasantly surprised myself though, and so far I've been managing to be productive. I'm not going to lie though, it's still a work in progress. If I don't watch myself I get sucked into Netflix series'. (I highly recommend 'Tiger King' - it's pretty incredible. I love what a ^{loose} unit Joe Exotic is; he reminds me of that carney from The Simpsons who tricks Homer out of the family house).

bound to happen but I was a bit blue about it - losing another social link like that. But of course it's fair enough, Sticky is such a tactile space and its cash-only too.

Cause I'm hanging around in my very tastefully decorated room more than usual lately - I've been going through my stuff and I did something I never do - read my old journal entries (they're a lot). I checked what I was up to on this date over the last five years, and it made me grateful that for all the past house I could've been stuck in right now, I'm stuck in this one with

For once my bedroom is really clean and on the one hand, I'm proud of myself, on the other, why did it take a pandemic for me to stop living like an animal?

I'm still seeing that girl and we're lucky cause our houses are in walking distance, but it's hard cause she's classified as having a compromised immune system and cause I see her the most at the moment, I'm trying to be as careful as possible.

Last night, all the sticky volunteers were told Sticky's shutting indefinitely. And I know it was my two daggy housemates and the very stylish 70s filing!

I hope you're taking care of yourself!

[how great is Dolly Parton though]

poesveryattractive
censin. wordpress.
com

