

WTF

VOL. 31

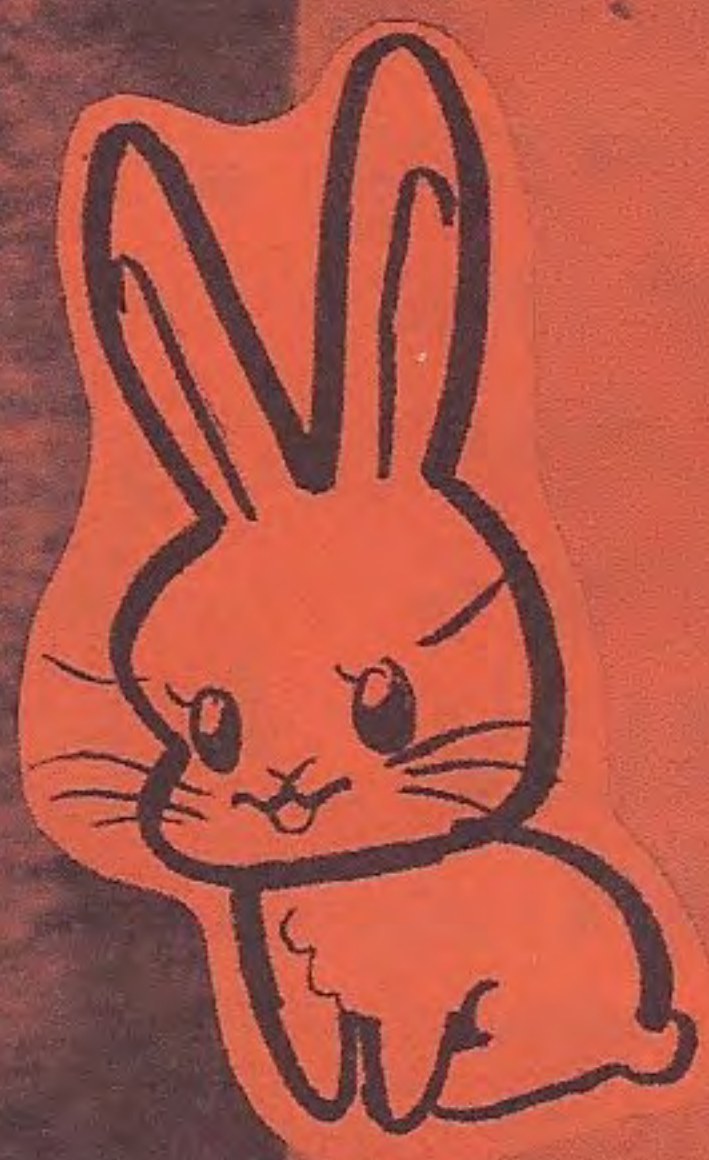

WHY I LOVE
AFTERNOON NAPS

- Bed is very comfortable
- Skip the hottest part of the day (fuck summer!)
- Better than dealing with my responsibilities
- I love the afternoon light in my room, filtered by sheer curtains. So soothing!
- Waking up to find my rabbit snoozing beside me on the bed, or booping me to demand cuddles. ♡

Dearest reader,

Hello, and welcome. I hope you're enjoying the Festival of the Photocopier! This is my second year attending and running a stall. Whether you're an old hand or a zine newbie, I'm sure you'll meet lots of wonderful zinesters and gather plenty of inspiration for your own creations.

Personally, I still have a butt-load of photocopying to do! I made a few new zines to debut at FotP (keep an eye out for "Cute Snacks" & volume 3 of "My Teacup Collection") and I'll have to re-print some older ones, too. I'm so excited though - I had an absolute blast in 2019, and I can't wait to do it all again.

Make sure you stop by Small Zine Volcano for more Patch, and lots of other excellent zines!

♡ Jess

Books I've Read Recently

- * "Heart of Iron" by Ashley Poston
- * "The Fifth Season" by N.K. Jemisin
- * "Hungry" by H.A. Swain
- * "Amelia Westlake" by Erin Cough
- * "Vicious" by V.E. Schwab

🎵 currently stuck in my head:
BENEE - First An Island 🎵

J.E.M. HAST
FEBRUARY 2020